RETURN OF THE SAMURAI

IN 1613, THE VISIONARY DATE MASAMUNE SENT AN EMBASSY OF SAMURAI TO SPAIN

In 1613 Date Masamune, the visionary Samurai, Daimyo and feudal lord of the Sendai (Japan) region, organised and sent the Keicho Embassy of Samurai to establish diplomatic and trade relations with Spain, the world power of the time. After a long and arduous journey lasting 11 months, the Embassy disembarked in Sanlúcar de Barrameda on October 5, 1614.

THE SPANISH COURT WERE FASCINATED BY THE IMMENSE NEATNESS AND PERSONAL HYGIENE UTENSILS OF THE SAMURAI

The Spanish aristocracy and court were fascinated with the Samurai of the Keicho Embassy, namely their absolute neatness, their meticulous bathing rituals, and their modern personal hygiene utensils that were unknown in Europe, including their disposable silk scarves, and the brushes used for their hair and teeth.

4 CENTURIES LATER THE DESCENDANTS OF THESE SAMURAI INTRODUCE THE "JAPAN SMART TOILET" IN SPAIN

Four centuries later, the descendants of the Sendai Samurai of the innovative company ARCA Japan have created the "JAPAN SMART TOILET", the perfect toilet. This impressive and advanced smart toilet has been introduced in our country by the company HOME JAPÓN, a brand created by one of the descendants of the Keicho Embassy who remained in Spain.
